Unlock the capacity of human relationships. Discover how authentic conversation forges engaging, creative and meaningful relationships that drive higher performance in teams and organizational culture.

This entertaining and highly interactive workshop is suitable for small or large groups, as a Lunch & Learn or professional development program, and for all levels of responsibility. We will explore the real benefits of conversation, examine six key principles and put those principles into practice to reveal how conversation fuels professional and organizational growth.

"Stuart is a complete breath of fresh air! He is a fantastic member of our Omaha Organization Development Network and is a fascinating facilitator. He has a knack for keeping your mind open, wondering, and exploring possibilities. People are drawn to his curiosities and divergent thinking – so our gatherings are always better when he's around!"
